Basingstoke Canal. King John's Castle, Odiham - built by King John in 1207, it was a three-storey octagonal tower (the only one in England) built for the pleasure of the king, (hunting etc.) rather than as a fortress, although it was held to good effect by a handful of men for a week in 1216 against the French. It was in 1215 that King John set out from here to sign the Magna Carta.
